REFERENCE

The Sacher company has been operating for over 30 years as a market leader specializing in metalworking, including CNC machining. Sacher is a guarantee of precision and professionalism thanks to highly qualified staff and a modern machine park, which includes the highest quality CNC machines. Thanks to its own quenching station, Sacher implements complex projects for contractors throughout Europe.

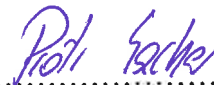

We are aware of how much professionalism, full availability, quick response and solving the problem "on the spot" are required by our clients. For this reason, we expect the same from our accounting office. Non-standard situations combined with urgent delivery times are an everyday reality for us, which is why the support of JWW employees is so valuable in running this type of business. Thanks to the team's experience, it was possible to introduce solutions that also contributed to the reduction of operating costs.

We recommend the JWW Accounting Office to those who want to ensure the comfort of running their business!
